About Vedic Astrology

Different schools of astrology arose independently around the world, including in places like China, India, Mesopotamia, and Mesoamerica. Each read the sky in their own unique ways.

Vedic astrology consolidated its own methods very early on, and unlike Hellenistic astrology, which was powerfully suppressed by religious authorities, Jyotish was intertwined with the religion and became one of the longest continuous traditions of astrology.

In Vedic astrology, charts are drawn in the Whole Sign House System, meaning that every house is comprised of one whole sign. For example, if your Rising Sign is Aries, then the First House would begin at zero degrees Aries and end at thirty degrees of Aries.

Vedic astrology's components are generally very similar to those in Western astrology, such as planets, houses, signs, aspects, etc. But there are three unique building blocks that reside at the core of Vedic astrology: Yogas, Nakshatras and Dasas.

Nakshatras are also called Lunar Mansions or Asterisms and they are simply groups of stars, smaller than the groups that make up the 12 signs. They are based upon the fact that while the Sun takes 12 months to circle the Earth (creating the 12 signs), the Moon takes 27+ days to circle the Earth, hence the 27 slices known as Nakshatras.

Like the signs, the Nakshatras each have their own extensive descriptions, which very accurately describe both a person and their lives. And because they cover even smaller groups of stars, they seem to cut right to the core of life's meanings.

Dasas are the primary predictive method in Vedic astrology. They are periods of time when one planet in the chart becomes activated. During a specific Dasa, all the activated planet's themes (and the planets and houses it connects to) become central in the person's life.

In this report, we examine several factors active at birth in order to understand the forces shaping a person and their orientation to life. And we also look at the current cycle to see what's happening now in one's life.

We trust you will find the report insightful and helpful.

How to use this Report

When a Vedic astrologer examines a birth chart, they see each planet having strengths and weaknesses, and both positive and negative influences upon them.

As a result, themes activated by planets are seldom all positive or all negative, but instead a mix of both.

How this plays itself out when studying this report is simple: Each section shows you your important themes and characteristics, and in reading them, imagine them expressing themselves in a variety of ways, both favorable and not.

For example, if the report reads:

If you were born into the Moon Dasa, your connection to your mother was very strong and fundamental to your well-being.

Then think about the many different ways that you interacted with your mother, as well as her varied behaviors and moods. And how a strong impact sometimes was uplifting and nurturing, and at other times stressful.

Or if the report says:

You were an enthusiastic child, who wanted to be a hero; active, involved, alive, and strategic, a warrior, often pursuing and championing your goals.

Then reflect upon how your aliveness and assertiveness was received by your parents, siblings, teachers etc. At times, and in certain environments, these very lovely qualities may have been rejected or even suppressed by others.

So please add your life to what is presented, so that you can gain more richness and meaning from this report.

Dasas

In Vedic astrology predictions are primarily made by using a system called Dasas. Dasas are periods of time where one planet in the chart is activated, meaning that its energy is dominant, and everything about it is enlivened.

For example, if a person is running the Moon Dasa, then the significations of the Moon become central (e.g. home, mother, emotions) and the themes of the sign and house it resides in and the house it rules are also activated.

The Dasa method used in this report is the most popular one in Jyotish: Vimshottari Dasa. The word Vimshottari means 120 years, the length of the complete cycle. In this system, planets are in a fixed sequence and for fixed durations.

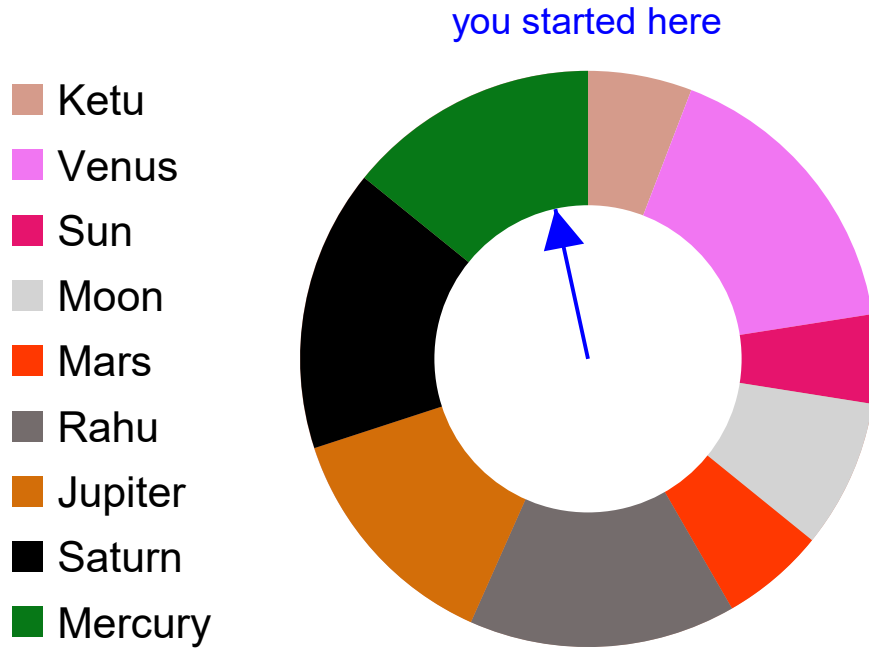

What is unique for each chart is the starting Dasa at birth. This is determined by the planet ruling the Moon's lunar mansion (Nakshatra) at birth, and our report calculates this precisely.

Because each Dasa lasts many years, we divide the duration of each into 9 smaller slices -- called Bhuktis -- starting with the Dasa lord itself. So, if a person is born at the beginning of the Venus Dasa, then the sequence would be Venus/Venus, then Venus/Sun, then Venus/Moon, and so on. (The notation is Dasa Lord/Bhukti Lord).

The Dasa System and Duration

Dasa	Duration
Ketu	7 years
Venus	20 years
Sun	6 years
Moon	10 years
Mars	7 years
Rahu	18 years
Jupiter	16 years
Saturn	19 years
Mercury	17 years

Dasa Sequence

Everyone enters life at a particular place in the ongoing Dasa sequence. Exploring the particularities of our starting point enable us to understand what shapes us from the beginning.

This report focuses on the Dasa you're born into, and what's activated in each person's chart. The Ascendant, and its Lord, are the clearest representatives of you yourself, followed by the Moon; and the First Dasa Lord indicates the themes and influences active at birth, so we examine the Nakshatra placements of all of these.

The First Dasa Lord Planet Mercury

You were born into the Mercury Dasa, your senses were very alive right off the bat. You were acutely aware of everything going on around you, and if the surroundings were agreeable, you were delighted with life. If, on the other hand, there was harshness, then life seemed too intense and you might have retreated into daydreams. In any case, you also had an early deep need to express yourself vocally and be heard by and listened to by others.

Since Mercury is one of the most changeable planets, your early life wasn't boring. There were many changes, people coming and going, maybe travel or even moving, and a lot of change in general. Hopefully, if your Mercury is strong, you were stimulated by everything around you, instead of unsettled or overwhelmed. If the latter, then your nervous system could have become hypersensitive, and calming and restoring practices will help you considerably.

Your Moon's Nakshatra at birth was Jyeshtha

From the start, you have had an early maturity and inner authority and leadership abilities that become stronger as you continued to grow.

You are a natural protector, and want to take others under your wing and make sure that they're safe and sound.

Be careful, however, of your innate drive, power and influence. If you use it wisely, life's waters part for you, but if you don't, you may make strong enemies.

Never give up, because if life presents obstacles or setbacks, you will be able to rise to the occasion and continue in your path of success.

Others may look up to you and see you as their hero, and it's your mission to be able to live up to their expectations and deserve their trust.

Your Nakshatras

Planet	Position	Planet's Nakshatra	Planet's Nakshatra Ruler
Sun	28 CP 33 12	Dhanishtha	Mars
Moon	26 SC 51 01	Jyeshtha	Mercury
Mercury	13 AQ 51 25	Shatabhisha	Rahu
Venus	08 PI 28 36	Uttara Bhadrpada	Saturn

Ketu	06 AQ 06 36	Dhanishtha	Mars
Ascendant	28 VI 19 39	Chitra	Mars

You began life with the following Nakshatras and their themes awakened:

The Nakshatra of your First Dasa Lord and Ascendant Lord is Shatabhisha

Since more than one point occupies this Nakshatra at birth, the Nakshatra's themes are even more important.

You started out life with a rich inner world, which you explored at least as much as the outer world. This made you seem introverted to others at times.

While you are generally optimistic and eager to help others resolve their issues, you don't share your own deepest challenges that much -- more would be better -- and often conceal or contain a lot that's going on inside you.

You thirst to understand, and may love mysteries, research, and finding out how life works. This drive may lead you into spirituality or mystical realms.

Your beliefs and views are strong and solid, and you can be quite forthright in letting others know when they're going down the wrong road. You don't mean any harm, but can be quite intense.

A healer, or one in need of healing (or both), your life journey is about the quest for wholeness, clarity, resolving karmic issues, and bringing the right attitude towards all of life's challenges.

The Nakshatra of your Ascendant is Chitra

You were born with an appreciation of beauty, color, form, and light and an awareness of style, design, and structure. Your aesthetic senses were quite acute.

Along with this was a natural creative and innovative streak. You find it quite enjoyable and fulfilling to express your vision in skilled and pleasing ways.

Having both a profound vitality and plenty of endurance, you are able to pursue your aims fully until achieving them.

Your ability as a speaker and conversationalist is also noteworthy. You can enthrall others with your stories and keep their attention without effort.

You do need to be careful, however, about expecting perfection, both from yourself and others. Yes, you can be incredibly precise and meticulous, but can have unrealistic expectations and demands, and work too hard (or expect others to).

Your Current Cycles

Note: in most cases, a planet's placement is a mixture of positive and negative, and both will manifest to some degree. E.g. there might be both lucky and challenging events associated with the home during the Dasa of the owner of the Fourth House.

Current Date 11 Feb 2026

Your Current Dasa Lord is Moon and your Bhukti Lord is Venus

Your Current Dasa Lord Moon

You are currently in the Moon Dasa, covering the period 16 Feb 2017 AD GC to 17 Feb 2027 AD GC.

In your chart Moon is in the 3rd house.
Moon is the ruler of your 11th house.

The Moon Dasa enlivens themes of your needs, moods, safety, sensitivity, nesting instincts, the workings of your mind, receptivity, water, and Mother. Here you may start to explore how to make your life emotionally richer, what kinds of security are important to you, how your feelings change over time, and "how you tick". (i.e., what psychological patterns and habits you have.) You might pay more attention to your home and to those closest to you during this Dasa.

The themes of the house occupied by the Dasa Lord and the house(s) ruled by the Dasa Lord are also enlivened during each Dasa. Both house occupied and house(s) ruled and the themes of the current Dasa Lord's Nakshatra are also activated:

The Third House represents your relationship with your younger siblings (and to some degree all of your siblings) and themes like sibling rivalry, as well as your capacity to initiate projects, your enterprise and courage and vigor, and everything to do with your hands, including crafts, music (e.g. drumming) and art (e.g. weaving), and care-taking (e.g. giving massages). This time period can be a fine time for taking on new projects, if you're up to it, or working on what stops you from exercising your assertiveness. And maybe to resolve remaining issues with siblings.

The Eleventh House represents many themes of fulfilment: the support of others, our personal gains, self-improvement, important friendships and groups, and letting ourselves learn to receive as well as give. Also, our relationship with our older siblings is here, as well as our outreach to the world at large. The latter means how we connect to our world of people, our social connections both near and far. During this period, it is advisable to let yourself not only improve and increase your connections with others, but allow them to give back to you, and especially learn to take in the gifts that others share with you.

The Nakshatra of your Current Dasa Lord is Jyeshtha

From the start, you have had an early maturity and inner authority and leadership abilities that become stronger as you continued to grow.

You are a natural protector, and want to take others under your wing and make sure that they're safe and sound.

Be careful, however, of your innate drive, power and influence. If you use it wisely, life's waters part for you, but if you don't, you may make strong enemies.

Never give up, because if life presents obstacles or setbacks, you will be able to rise to the occasion and continue in your path of success.

Others may look up to you and see you as their hero, and it's your mission to be able to live up to their expectations and deserve their trust.

Your Current Dasa Lord is debilitated

During this Dasa period, don't try to perform or excel in the way you've done in the past. That's not to say that you can't or won't achieve well during this time, just that you are likely to need both a different pace of life and perhaps a different approach.

You can see things differently than those around you, and please use that to your advantage at times like these. Cherish your individuality and unique gifts and find the life rhythm that works best for you.

The Brightness of the Moon at Birth

The Moon was dark (within 72 degrees of the Sun) and waning when you were born. The Moon's brightness was 34%.

During this period, you feel that your basic needs weren't seen or met. This created a yearning within you for someone who really saw and met your needs.

Your Current Bhukti Lord Venus

You are currently in the Venus Bhukti, covering the period 18 Dec 2024 AD GC to 18 Aug 2026 AD GC.

Houses	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
DL Moon			O	S					A		R
BL Venus	A	RS		S	P		OS		R			S

DL=Dasa Lord, BL=Bhukti Lord, R=Sign Ruler, A=Aspect
O=Occupies, S=Significator, P=Relative Position

During the Venus Bhukti period, the themes of these houses are reinforced.

5th House

The Fifth House not only represents all forms of creation and self-expression, including children, performances, and creative projects, but also the wisdom and intelligence that you embody and share with others. The house of reaping good karma and of spiritual practices, during this period it is wise to give careful counsel and support to others, to find a path and teachings that develop and advance your spiritual alignment, and to provide yourself with both time for fun and creative outlets too.

9th House

The Ninth House is a happy one, and besides indicating our good fortune, relationship with Spirit, higher learning and wisdom, and far-flung adventures, it also represents our best teachers, those who help us to progress the most in our understanding of our lives. Father is also indicated here, and so it can be a time when one faces and works through any lingering paternal themes. But in general, it's time to stretch our bodies, hearts, minds, and souls and find joy and awakening in our lives.

The Relationship between your Bhukti Lord and your Dasha Lord.

Because your Bhukti lord is in the fifth sign from your Dasha Lord, this period will be about your children, students, spiritual practices, creativity, intelligence, and recreation. This is an important time to be with your family, to apply your wisdom to your life choices, and to remember to "let your hair down" and play.

In Conclusion

Knowing the astrological influences surrounding your entry into this world can be very valuable, because much of our early life can be forgotten, even though childhood often has a pivotal effect in shaping our lives.

This report invites you to revisit your early years and take to heart the energies that molded you. Explore and reflect upon the themes mentioned here, and see if there is any unfinished business or lasting effects that can be unwound or moved beyond. And recognize your strengths and the arenas of your life that were most active as a child.

In the second portion of the report, studying the attributes and areas lit up by your current dasa lord can be very useful. You can know better what to anticipate, what life's lessons are at this point in your journey, and what you need to focus on.

This introductory report, in other words, is a doorway to understanding both your origins and current state of affairs.

May you navigate them both beautifully.
